

About Us

Many people ask us why "Converge"? Why did you guys name your firm "Converge? Well, the answer is very simple. It was a coming together of thoughts, ideas, ideals and values, a convergence of skills, passion for design, and ultimately the determination to succeed. Based in a country where so called "web designing" firms are found dime a dozen, we chose to always place quality before anything else. Whenever we take up a new project, both of us sit and discuss the approach we will be following in the coming days with regards to the project. We have followed this procedure throughout the 1.5 years of our existence and this has helped us immensely, be it a Logo Project, a Design Project or a Code Development.

You could not have two better people running the show.. She's an I.T. Engineer, who brings to the firm the stability of the times tested standards and methods of web development, He's a Business Graduate, who thoroughly believes in the new technologies and standards. Together they bring to you a complete solution which converges the old with the new!

Welcome to the new site of "Converge". We've kept in mind that 'you' would want to know what we do, what we've done and how we do it, and we've given you the easiest ways to get in touch with us to commission us or just drop in to give us some bouquets & brickbats.
